Electric mobility is a key to tomorrow’s mobility. What goes along is the need to stay connected. What started with navigations systems some years ago, will go much further in near future. Flexible APPs and interactive solutions will speed up the emobility market.

Crucial from the drivers perspective is the flexibility to charge wherever it is needed. With the intercharge platform Hubject offers this, so far missing element and enables roaming between different charging systems.